

Can we afford the future?

The economics of a warming world

FRANK ACKERMAN

ZED BOOKS
London & New York

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
1 The status quo is not an option	1
2 Your grandchildren's lives are important	15
3 We need to buy insurance for the planet	28
4 Climate damages are too valuable to have prices	41
5 Some costs are better than others	55
6 Hot, it's not: climate economics according to Lomborg	70
7 Much less wrong: the Stern Review versus its critics	82

8	Climate, equity, and development	97
9	What is to be done?	113
	Notes	133
	References	140
	Index	146