Do integrable mappings have the Painlevé property?

Alfred Ramani

Centre de physique théorique

École Polytechnique

91128 Palaiseau

FRANCE

`ramani@cpht.polytechnique.fr`

Abstract

Various integrability detectors are considered for mappings (systems of discrete, difference or q-difference equations). Their relations to the Painlevé property, as an integrability detector for continuous, differential equations, is discussed.