Review Symposium—Economics of the Family: Marriage, Children and Human Capital by Theodore W. Schultz (ed.), reviewed by N. Krishnan Namboodiri, Demography 12, 3 (August 1975), pp. 561–569.

On page 567, column 2, beginning with line 6 the text should read:

While all these are possible, unfortunately the fact remains that the theory developed so far has failed to pay any attention to them.

IV

Turning to an overall assessment of the current status of the new home economics from the point of view of the family-and-fertility-related research, I raise two questions: (1) What can be said about it as a deductive theory? (2) What aid does it promise to the empirical researcher?
