

A 341013

Feminist Methodology

Challenges and Choices

Caroline Ramazanoğlu with Janet Holland

SAGE Publications
London • Thousand Oaks • New Delhi

Contents

	Page
I Introduction	1
Introduction	1
Three challenges to feminist methodology	3
What is gender?	4
What is feminism in the twenty-first century?	5
Are feminists women?	7
What is methodology in social research?	9
Is feminist methodology distinctively feminist?	15
The structure of the book	17
 PART I FEMINISM'S ENLIGHTENMENT LEGACY AND ITS CONTRADICTIONS
2 Reason, science and progress: feminism's Enlightenment inheritance	23
Introduction	23
Enlightenment thought	24
Reason, science and progress: how Enlightenment thought has shaped feminist approaches to methodology	25
Modern humanism	33
The long shadow of the Enlightenment: challenges and contradictions at the roots of modern feminist methodology	36
Conclusion	39
3 Can feminists tell the truth? Challenges of scientific method	41
Introduction	41
Feminist research as a quest for valid knowledge of social realities by a knowing subject	42
Feminist objections to scientific method in social research	44
Objectivity, subjectivity, relativism: competing paths to truth	47
Conclusion	57
4 From truth/reality to knowledge/power: taking a feminist standpoint	60
Introduction	60
The knowing feminist at the limits of modern methodology	61
A methodological continuum: slipping and sliding on Haraway's greasy pole	61

What is a feminist standpoint? 63
 Nancy Hartsock: achieving a feminist standpoint as a vantage point on male supremacy 68
 Dorothy Smith: taking women's standpoint; beginning in experience 71
 What problems remain? 74
 Conclusion 78

PART II FREEDOM, FRAGMENTATION AND RESISTANCE

5 Escape from epistemology? The impact of postmodern thought on feminist methodology 83
 Introduction 83
 Postmodern thought 84
 Postmodern freedoms: sweeping away the foundations of
 feminist methodology 86
 Thus far but no further? Feminist resistance to postmodern thought 96
 Conclusion 102

6 Researching 'others': feminist methodology and the politics of difference 105
 Introduction 105
 Confronting difference in feminist social research 106
 Being different: the constitution of 'otherness' 107
 Being different: experiencing and resisting 'otherness' 110
 Complications of difference 111
 The politics of representing 'others': the privileged researcher 112
 The power of interpretation: data analysis 116
 Reflexivity in the research process 118
 Conclusion 120

7 Knowledge, experience and reality: justifying feminist connections 123
 Introduction 123
 The case against taking experience as a source of knowledge 124
 A case for taking experience as a source of knowledge 127
 The difficulties of connecting experience and material realities 132
 Should feminists specify criteria of validity? 135
 The idea of a feminist epistemic community 138
 Conclusion 140

PART III MEETING CHALLENGES, MAKING CHOICES

8 Choices and decisions: doing a feminist research project 145
 Introduction 145
 What makes social research feminist? 146
 The research process 148

Situating your research question	149
Face to face with the research: data production	154
Face to face with the researched: putting reflexivity into practice	156
Face to face with the data: analysis and conclusions	159
Face to face with a blank sheet: writing up	161
Conclusion	163
9 Conclusion	165
Glossary	170
References	174
Index	191