

A 1998
9680

Global Information and World Communication

New Frontiers in International Relations

Hamid Mowlana

SAGE Publications
London • Thousand Oaks • New Delhi

Contents

Preface to the Revised Edition	xi
1 World Politics in Transition: New Frontiers in International Relations	1
● International Communication as a Field of Study	5
● Approaches to International Communication	6
● International Political Communication	8
● International Strategic Communication	12
● International Economic Communication	14
● Intercultural Communication and Conflict	17
2 International Flow of Information: A Framework of Analysis	23
● What is Information?	25
● Perspectives on the Study of Flow	27
● Problems of Measurement	29
● A Framework for the Study of Flow	30
● Factors in the Flow	33
3 News and Views: Designing the World's Symbolic Environment	40
● Emerging Issues	41
● Current Lines of Inquiry	43
● News Agencies and News Exchange	47
● The Direction of Flow	55
4 Broadcasting the World: National and International Images	66
● Perspectives in Television Flow	66
● Impact and Effects of Television Flows	69
● International Radio Broadcasting	76
● Direct Broadcasting by Satellite	80
5 Cultural Industry: From Books to Computers	90
● Books, Journals, and Educational Texts	90
● Film and Sound Recordings	96
● International Advertising	97

●	Video, Computer, and Related Technologies	100
●	The Internet Elite	102
●	Conclusion	105
6	Political Economy of Information: Transnational Data Flows	107
●	From Transborder to Transnational	108
●	Diversity of Data Flow	110
●	From Privacy to Sovereignty	113
●	Trade and Information Services	119
●	Planetary Resource Information Flow	123
7	International Interactions: Travel and Tourism	131
●	Foreign Relations of the Public	131
●	International Tourism as a Mode of Communication	132
●	Tourism as an Integrated Industry	136
●	Telecommunications and the Tourism Industry	137
●	Tourism in a Global Context	141
●	Impact and Effects	143
8	Human Flow Across National Boundaries: Intercultural Communication	146
●	International Conferences	148
●	International Educational Exchanges	151
●	Effects of Intercultural Communication	157
●	Traditional Communication	163
9	Information Technology: Developing Communication Systems and Policies	168
●	The Communication Revolution	169
●	Technology versus Tradition	171
●	Communication Technology and National Development	174
●	A Conceptual Framework for Theory and Policy	177
●	Implications for National and International Communication Policy	182
●	Conclusion	183
10	Communication and Development: The Emerging Orders	185
●	Theoretical and Methodological Problems and Prospects	186
●	From Modernization to Postmodernity and Beyond	189
●	Knowledge Affluence and Information Hunger	197
●	Networking as Communication	198
11	International Communication Research: From Functionalism to Postmodernism and Beyond	207
●	Communication Research in Transition	208
●	Challenge to Theoretical Orthodoxy	210

●	What We Have Learned	215
●	What Needs to be Learned	223
●	Research Questions for the Twenty-First Century	229
12	The Unfinished Revolution: The Crisis Of Our Age	234
●	Communication as Cultural Ecology	235
●	Communication and the Human Potential	238
●	Toward a New Perspective of Global Communication	239
●	An Ethical Framework	242
	Bibliography	247
	Index	261