

LABOR in the MODERN SOUTH

Edited by Glenn T. Eskew

The University of Georgia Press

Athens and London

Contents

- vii Preface
- 1 The Pursuits of Post-exceptionalism: Race, Gender, Class, and Politics in the New Southern Labor History
Michelle Brattain
- 47 “Give Her Some out of That”: Cotton Mill Girls, Family Wages, and the Question of Female Independence in the New South
Douglas Flamming
- 62 “The Women Are Asking for BREAD, Why Give Them STONE?”: Women, Work, and Protests in Atlanta and Norfolk during World War I
Tera W. Hunter
- 83 Fearing Eleanor: Racial Anxieties and Wartime Rumors in the American South, 1940–1945
Bryant Simon
- 102 Bell Aircraft Comes South: The Struggle by Atlanta Blacks for Jobs during World War II
Merl E. Reed
- 135 Exclusion, Fair Employment, or Interracial Unionism: Race Relations in Florida’s Shipyards during World War II
Alex Lichtenstein
- 158 A Venture into Unplowed Fields: Daniel Powell and CIO Political Action in the Postwar South
Robert H. Zieger
- 182 Affirmative Action and the Conservative Agenda: President Richard M. Nixon’s Philadelphia Plan of 1969
Judith Stein

- 207 The Serendipitous Historian: Gary M Fink and the Shaping of Southern Labor History
Clifford Kuhn
- 217 Afterword
Gary M Fink
- 223 About the Authors
- 227 Index