

Letters and Viewpoints

(Contributions to this section are invited but we reserve the right to edit at our discretion—Ed.)

From: S.K. Goyal, QM Department, Concordia University

Dear Sir,

I am delighted to see that the February 1986 issue of the Society's Journal is devoted to O.R. in Developing Countries. I have read a few papers contained in the issue, and I wish to congratulate the guest editor, Graham K. Rand, referees and authors of the papers for making this issue of the Journal a memorable one for O.R. scientists interested in the application of O.R. in developing countries.

Readers of the Journal may be interested to know that the Operational Research Society of India has recently published a monograph entitled "O.R. for Developing Countries". The monograph is edited by Dr N.K. Jaiswal, and contains papers by authors from several countries. I am sure Dr Jaiswal will be delighted to provide more information. His address is: Dr N.K. Jaiswal, c/o Institute for Systems Studies and Analyses, T-44 Metcalfe House, Delhi 11054, India.

Yours faithfully,
S.K. GOYAL