

Review of: "A method to reduce false positives in a patent query"

Elizabeth M. Webster¹

¹ Swinburne University of Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

False positives in patent search is a large and expensive issue that acts as a break on the innovation system in the science and technology areas. This paper presents a novel and innovative way to reduce the number of false positives in search. It represents a good step forward.