

Review of: "Picture collage: A pedagogical reflective practice tool for nursing students in mental health practice"

Nageen Mustafa¹

¹ Keele University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

A very well written, incredibly interesting and timely piece of work. This article highlights the current stigmatisation of mental illness in UAE. Although it specifically relates to a reflexive practice tool for pre-registration nursing students, this could easily be applicable to other professions in healthcare settings. This work may also help to build resilience and confidence in nursing students and better prepare them for the world of work in the UAE. In addition, there is a clear link to improving patient care and wellbeing through the practices used in this work. The photographs and quotes really brought this work to life. Thank you for highlighting these issues.