

THE EARLY HISTORY OF BANKING IN ENGLAND

BY

R. D. RICHARDS

FRANK CASS AND COMPANY LTD.
LONDON
1958

CONTENTS

| | PAGE |
|---------------------------------|------|
| PREFACE | ix |
| LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS | xix |

CHAPTER I

THE PIONEERS

The mediæval money-changers—The "business of exchange"—The English pioneers of banking—The Antwerpian merchant bankers—The Fuggers—The financial operations of Gresham—The Elizabethan "loans upon Privy Seals"—The Privy Seal demand note—The goldsmith—The "exchanging" merchant—The "banker's art"—The "retailing" and "exchanging" brokers—The stock-jobber—The money scrivener—Powell, Dekker and North on the money scrivener's methods—The wool "brogger" and the corn "bodger"—The legalisation of usury—The emergence of the financial terms stock, share, dividend and capital—The early English accountancy books—The genesis of modern capitalism

I

CHAPTER II

THE GOLDSMITH BANKERS AND THE EVOLUTION OF ENGLISH PAPER MONEY

The functions of the goldsmith banker—The effects of the "Stop" of the Exchequer—The two groups of goldsmith bankers—The documentary material relating to goldsmith banking—The ledgers of Alderman Edward Backwell, goldsmith banker—An analysis of Backwell's transactions—His metropolitan and provincial depositors—The "Dunkirk Ledger"—Its remarkable contents—The earliest known goldsmith's receipt—The Royal Mint as a depository—The transition from goldsmith to

| | |
|---|----|
| goldsmith banker—The effects of the Civil War, the Parliamentary Administrative Committee System, and the First Dutch War—The goldsmith bankers and trading enterprises—Early English paper money—The evolution of the goldsmith's promissory note—The earliest examples of such notes—The promissory notes of the early English provincial bankers—The bill of exchange and its development—The emergence of assignability—Malynes, Marius and Scarlett on bills of exchange—The inland bill of exchange—The assignability of the promissory note—The earliest cheques—The demand note upon the Exchequer—The Auditor of the Receipt's note—The earliest pass-books—The debenture—The payment order—The tally—The repayment order or "order of loan"—The fiduciary "order of the Exchequer"—The Exchequer "Registers of Orders for Repayment"—The Exchequer as a bank of issue—Examples of the "order of loan" and the "order of the Exchequer"—The lesser goldsmith bankers | 23 |
|---|----|

CHAPTER III

THE GOLDSMITH BANKERS AND THEIR TRANSACTIONS WITH THE EXCHEQUER

The events leading to the "Stop" of the Exchequer—The State debt to the goldsmith bankers—The Exchequer of Receipt accounts relating to this debt as recorded in the "Bankers Booke of Interest" and the "Booke for entringe of the Accompts of Goldsmiths and others"—The account of Bernard Turner—The account of Joseph Hornby—The accounts of Sir Robert Vyner—The accounts of Isaac Meynell and partners—Other Records of the Exchequer of Receipt containing details of the State debt to the goldsmith bankers—Charles II's interim interest grant of £140,000—The grant of regular interest in 1677—An analysis of the State debt to the bankers—The Assignment Books (Goldsmiths') and the Assignment Books (Pells)—The assignments recorded in the Assignment Books (Goldsmiths') with particular reference to the creditors of Sir Robert Vyner, Backwell, Whitehall, Lindsay and Portman—A selection of the assignments of Sir Robert Vyner, Portman and Whitehall from the "Liber Tertius Bankers Assignments, 1678" of the Pells series—The business methods of Sir Robert Vyner as described in the Exchequer Bills and Answers—The post-"Stop" goldsmith bankers: Duncombe, Kent, the Hoares and Childs—The connection of modern English banks with the shops of the goldsmiths—Child's, Hoare's and Martins—Lloyds—Barclays—The Westminster—The National Provincial and Smiths of Nottingham

CHAPTER IV

TUDOR AND STUART BANKING SCHEMES

| | PAGE |
|---|------|
| Elizabethan and Jacobean schemes—the "Banck or Treasure Permanent"—the Mont de Piété and the Mons Negotiationes—Benbrigge, Huniman, Malynes, Cooke and Gerbier as advocates of Monts de Piété—the Cromwellian schemes of Gerbier, Potter, Robinson, Hartlib and Lambe—Cradocke's hundred "constant" district banks—Ford's "banks of loans upon pawns"—Murray's "bank and lombard" and National Bank—Lewis's four hundred "précinct" banks—Petty on "public loan banks, lombards, or banks of credit"—Cary's "grand and lesser chambers"—Defoe's fifteen town banks—Why these schemes failed to mature—London's Chamber and Orphans' Fund—"The Bank of the City of London"—The Orphans' Act and its effects on the Bank of England—"The Bank on the Tickets of the Million Adventure"—The four land banks—The Exeter Exchange Land Bank—Briscoe's "National Land Bank in Exchange Alley"—Chamberlen's "Office of Land Credit"—The Parliamentary National Land Bank—Causes of the collapse of the land banks—"The Bank" | 92 |

CHAPTER V

THE FOUNDATION OF THE BANK OF ENGLAND

| | |
|---|-----|
| The influx of Jewish and Dutch merchants and its effects—The first English Funded State Loans—The focussing of public opinion on monetary problems—The banks of the Continent—The Bank of Amsterdam—The Bank of England and continental banking methods—The economic condition of England in 1694—The recoinage of 1696—The introduction of the Exchequer bill—The Tunnage Act of 1694—The Bank Act of 1697—The "engrafted Stock"—The subscriptions to the Bank's original "capital stock"—How the first £1,200,000 was advanced to the State—The election of the first Court of Directors—The business transacted at the first meeting of the Court—The appointment of the Bank's earliest officials | 132 |
|---|-----|

CHAPTER VI

THE EARLY TRANSACTIONS OF THE BANK OF ENGLAND

| | |
|---|--|
| The "three methods of keeping running cash"—The earliest transactions in tallies and goldsmiths' notes—The beginnings of the Bank's departmental system—The Bank's earliest paper | |
|---|--|

| | PAGE |
|--|------|
| money—The Bank's sealed bill—The Bank's promissory note— The Bank's accomptable note—The Bank's "lettered note indented on marbled paper"—The Bank's specie note—The keeping of "Accompts with ye Creditors"—The "drawing account"—The Bank's relations with the goldsmith bankers— The Bank's early pawnbroking business—The system of special committees—The "committee in waiting"—The other com- mittees—The difficulties encountered by the earliest directors . | 153 |

CHAPTER VII

THE EARLY TRANSACTIONS OF THE BANK OF ENGLAND (continued)

| | |
|---|-----|
| The relations of the Bank's directors with the Lords of the Treasury—The exchange transactions of English financiers— The use made of Exchequer bills in financing the war with France—The "business of remises"—The establishment of the Bank's "House at Antwerp"—The Bank's continental agents —The method of electing these agents—The "weighty concerne at Antwerp"—The methods of making remittances to Flanders —The remittances made between September 1694 and February 1695—Ranelagh's Report on the remittances made between May 1695 and June 1696—The Bank's account of these operations | 176 |
|---|-----|

CHAPTER VIII

THE SALIENT FEATURES OF ENGLISH BANKING HISTORY IN THE EIGHTEENTH AND EARLY NINETEENTH CENTURIES

| |
|---|
| The Bank's position at the beginning of the eighteenth century— The quotations for its stock between 1696 and 1700—Its notes during this period—Its dividends between 1696 and 1709—The Bank Acts of 1707 and 1708—The strengthening of the bonds between the Bank and the State—The Bank Act of 1742— The early country banks and their London agents—Details relating to the country banks given by J. P. Wilkins and Vincent Stuckey to the Committee of Secrecy on the Bank of England in 1832—The note issues of the country banks— Thomas Joplin on the country banks—The early provincial branches of the Bank of England—Their reception by the country bankers—Why the establishment of the Bank's branches was delayed—The "Act for the better regulating Co-partnerships of certain Bankers" of 1826—The early pro- |
|---|

| | PAGE |
|---|------|
| vincial joint stock banks—The Bank of Manchester—The Bank Act of 1833—The Bank of England's chief interests in the eighteenth century—The period 1793 to 1833—Hankey and Bagehot on the Bank of England | 189 |

CHAPTER IX

CONCLUSION

| | |
|---|-----|
| (i) The Economic Background | 202 |
| (ii) The Political Background | 209 |
| (iii) The Religious Background | 212 |
| (iv) The Evolution of Banking Theory and Practice | 223 |

APPENDICES

| | |
|---|-----|
| 1. The Earliest Examples of Goldsmiths' Receipt Notes | 239 |
| 2. The Private Accounts of Samuel Pepys and Narcissus Luttrell. From the earliest of Messrs. Hoare's Ledgers | 240 |
| 3. Other Examples of Private Accounts from the Ledgers of Goldsmith Bankers | 242 |
| 4. Items selected from an Exchange Account in one of the Ledgers of Alderman Edward Backwell, Goldsmith Banker | 245 |
| 5. Entries, dated 13th November 1656 to 2nd July 1657, from a Cromwellian Exchequer Book recording the Receipt of "Moneyes Payable" by Sir Thomas Vyner and Edward Backwell, Goldsmith Bankers, "upon their Contract for the Spanish Plate and Money" | 246 |
| 6. A Treasury Warrant, dated 15th July 1664, authorising the drawing of an Order for Payment of £357 4s. 9d. due to Edward Backwell for recoining the Cross and Harp Money | 247 |
| 7. A Treasury Warrant, dated 25th October 1664, for the payment of £8,000 and £1,500 to Edward Backwell, the former sum as a Free Gift for Loans to Charles II, and the latter as an Allowance for receiving the Dunkirk Money | 248 |
| 8. A List of Tallies struck on the Hearth Duty held by Sir Robert Vyner, Goldsmith Banker | 250 |
| 9. A Privy Seal, dated 25th August 1669, authorising payment to Edward Backwell of £4,650 16s. 8d. as Interest, Allowance and Gratuity on several Loans to Charles II, and an attached "General Accompt of Interest" | 251 |
| 10. The Interest Account of John Portman, Goldsmith Banker, attached to a Privy Seal, dated 31st March 1671, authorising payment of £497 17s. 6½d. as Interest and "Charges" on a Loan of £9,608 16s. 1d. advanced by this Banker | 256 |

| | PAGE |
|--|---------|
| 11. A Privy Seal, dated 21st May 1671, to Sir Robert Vyner for the Payment of £9,063 15s. 7d. and £22,865 8s. 8d. for Gold Chains, Medals, Plate and Jewels supplied to Charles II | 259 |
| 12. Copies, entered in an Exchequer Order Book, of the original Payment Orders authorising "Reward and Compensation" to Edward Backwell for Loans amounting to £14,169 | 261 |
| 13. Entries from an Exchequer Interest Account recording payments of Interest to Goldsmith Bankers in the year of the "Stop" of the Exchequer | 263 |
| 14. The first two Items of an Exchequer "Accompt of Monies" due to Dorothea Colville, Administratrix of John Colville, Goldsmith Banker, for Interest | 264 |
| 15. A Privy Seal, dated 30th June 1674, for the payment of £300 to Edward Backwell, and £2,000 to Sir Robert Vyner as Allowances for keeping in readiness for the Service of the State the sums of £33,337 6s. 8d. and £145,000 respectively | 266 |
| 16. An Exchequer "Accompt of Monies" due to Joseph Hornby, Goldsmith Banker, for Interest | 268 |
| 17. A Treasury Warrant, dated 21st July 1674, for the payment of Interest on the State Debt to the Goldsmith Bankers | 270 |
| 18. A Goldsmith Banker's Conditions of Office upon being appointed Cashier and Receiver of Excise. | 271 |
| 19. A Goldsmith Banker's Assignment, dated 11th September 1677 | 273 |
| 20. A Treasury Warrant, dated 3rd January 1686, for the payment of Interest to Richard Kent and Charles Duncombe, Goldsmith Bankers | 275 |
| 21. The first Minutes of the Court of Directors of the Bank of England | 276 |
| 22. The Bank of England's earliest Regulations for the keeping of a "Drawing Account," dated 12th January 1698 | 278 |
| 23. The Bank of England's earliest Public Statement of Accounts, dated 10th November 1696 | 280 |
| BIBLIOGRAPHY | 281 |
| INDEX | 303 |