SCENE 2

Q4

Alarum within. Enter King Duncan & Malcolm . Enter Lenox with a bleeding Captain.

|    | King    | What bloody man is that ?   |
|----|---------|---|
|    | Malcolm | This is the Serjeant,Who like a good and hardie Souldier fought'Gainst my Captivitie: Haile brave friend;Say to the King, the knowledge of the Broyle,As thou didst leave it.   |
| Q5 | Captain | Doubtfull it stood,As two spent Swimmers, that doe cling together,And choake their Art: The mercilesse MacdonwaldFrom the Westerne IslesWith Fortune on his damned Quarry smiling,Shew'd like a Rebells Whore: but all's too weake:For brave Macbeth ( well hee deserves that Name )Disdayning Fortune, with his brandisht Steele,Which smoak'd with bloody executionCarv'd out his passage, till hee fac'd the Slave:Which nev'r shooke hands, nor bad farwell to him,Till he unseam'd him from the Nave to th' Chops, |

|                           | And fix'd his Head upon our Battlements.  |                       |
|---------------------------|---|-----------------------|
| King                      | O valiant Cousin, worthy Gentleman.   |                       |
| Captain                   | Marke King of Scotland, marke,But the Norweyan Lord, surveying vantage,With furbusht Armes, and new supplyes of men,Began a fresh assault.  |                       |
| King                      | Dismay'd not this our Captaines, Macbeth and Bang   | luoh ?                |
| Captain                   | They but doubly redoubled stroakes upon the Foe:But I am faint, My Gashes cry for helpe.  |                       |
| King                      | So well thy words become thee, as thy wounds,They smack of Honor both: Goe get him Surgeons.Who comes here?   | Exit Lenox & Captain. |
| MalcolmMalcolm | The worthy Thane of Rosse.What a haste lookes through his eyes ?   | Enter Ross. Exit      |
| Ross                      | God save the King.  |                       |
| King                      | Whence cam'st thou, worthy Thane ?  |                       |
| Ross                      | From Fiffe, great King,Where the Norweyan Banners flowt the Skie,And fanne our people cold.Norway himselfe, with terrible numbers,Assisted by that most disloyall Traytor,The Thane of Cawdor, began a dismall Conflict,Point against Point, rebellious Arme 'gainst Arme,Curbing his lavish spirit: and to conclude,The Victorie fell on us. |                       |
| King                      | No more that Thane of Cawdor shall deceiveOur Bosome interest: Goe pronounce his present deAnd with his former Title greet Macbeth .  | ath,                  |
| Ross                      | lle see it done.  |                       |
| King                      | What he hath lost, Noble Macbeth hath wonne.  |                       |
| Exe                       | eunt  |                       |

| Q7 | 1                         | Where hast thou beene, Sister ?  |              |
|    | 2                         | Killing Swine.   |              |
|    | 4                         | Sister, where thou?  |              |
| Q8 | 1                         | A Saylors Wife had Chestnuts in her Lappe,And mouncht, & mouncht, and mouncht:Give me, quoth I.Aroynt thee, Witch, the rumpe-fed Ronyon cryes.Her Husband's to Aleppo gone, Master o'th' Tiger :But in a Syve IIe thither sayle,And like a Rat without a tayle,IIe doe, IIe doe, and IIe doe. |              |
|    | 2                         | lle give thee a Winde.   |              |
|    | 4                         | And I another.   |              |
|    | 1                         | I my selfe have all the other,Ile dreyne him drie as Hay:Sleepe shall neyther Night nor DayHang upon his Pent-house Lid:He shall live a man forbid:Wearie Sev'nights, nine times nine,Shall he dwindle, peake, and pine:Though his Barke cannot be lost,Yet it shall be Tempest-tost.            | Drum within. |
|    | 4                         | A Drumme, a Drumme :Macbeth doth come.  |              |
|    | All                       | The weyward Sisters, hand in hand,Posters of the Sea and Land,Thus doe goe, about, about,Thrice to thine, and thrice to mine,And thrice againe, to make up nine.Peace, the Charme's wound up.  |              |
|    | Enter Macbeth and Banquo. |  |              |
|    | Macbeth                   | So foule and faire a day I have not seene.   |              |
|    | Banquo                    | What are these,So wither'd, and so wilde in their attyre,That looke not like th' Inhabitants o'th'Earth,And yet are on't ? Live you, or are you aughtThat man may question ? you seeme to understand rBy each at once her choppie finger laying  | ne,          |

3

Upon her skinnie Lips.

| Macbeth | Speake if you can: what are you ?   |
|---------|---|
| 1       | All haile Macbeth, haile to thee Thane of Glamis.   |
| 2       | All haile Macbeth, haile to thee Thane of Cawdor.   |
| 4       | All haile Macbeth, that shalt be King hereafter.  |
| Banquo  | Good Sir, why doe you start, and seeme to feareThings that doe sound so faire ? i'th' name of truthAre ye fantasticall ? My Noble PartnerYou greet with present Grace, and great predictionThat he seemes wrapt withall: to me you speake not.If you can looke into the Seedes of Time,Speake then to me, who neyther begge, nor feareYour favors, nor your hate. |
| 1       | Hayle.  |
| 2       | Hayle.  |
| 4       | Hayle.  |
| 1       | Lesser then Macbeth, and greater.   |
| 2       | Not so happy, yet much happyer.   |
| 4       | Thou shalt get Kings, though thou be none:So all haile Macbeth , and Banquo .   |
| 1       | Banquo, and Macbeth, all haile.   |
| Macbeth | Stay you imperfect Speakers, tell me more:By Sinells death, I know I am Thane of Glamis,But how, of Cawdor ? the Thane of Cawdor livesA prosperous Gentleman: And to be King,Stands not within the prospect of beleefe.Say from whence you owe this strange Intellegence.Speake, I charge you.Witches vanish  |
| Banquo  | Whither are they vanish'd ?   |
| Macbeth | Into the Ayre: and what seem'd corporall,Melted, as breath into the Winde.Would they had stay'd.  |
| Banquo  | Were such things here, as we doe speake about ?   |
