

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights

Origins, Drafting, and Intent

Johannes Morsink
⇓

PENN

University of Pennsylvania Press

Philadelphia

Contents

Introduction: The Declaration at Fifty	ix
Chapter 1: The Drafting Process Explained	1
1.1 The United Nations Charter and the Declaration	1
1.2 The Seven Drafting Stages	4
1.3 Original Intentions and the Cold War	12
1.4 The Eight Abstentions	21
1.5 Authors, Title, and Addressees	28
Chapter 2: World War II as Catalyst	36
2.1 Personal Security and the Camps	37
2.2 Nazification and Legal Human Rights	43
2.3 The Problem with the Nuremberg Trials	52
2.4 Democracy, Free Speech, and Hate Speech	58
2.5 Special International Human Rights and the Role of the United Nations	72
2.6 Social, Economic, and Cultural Examples	88
Chapter 3: Colonies, Minorities, and Women's Rights	92
3.1 The Communist Push for Nondiscrimination	93
3.2 The Problem of the Colonies	96
3.3 Race, Color, National Origin, and Language	102
3.4 Political Opinion, Property, and Birth	109
3.5 The Women's Lobby and Women's Rights	116
Chapter 4: Privacy and Different Kinds of Property	130
4.1 The Latin American Connection	130
4.2 Inviolability and Privacy Rights	134
4.3 Should Personal Property Be Singled Out?	139
4.4 "Alone as Well as in Association with Others"	146
4.5 A Minimum Within a Larger Framework	152

Chapter 5: The Socialist Shape of Work-Related Rights	157
5.1 Freedom and the Right to Work	158
5.2 The Right to Protection Against Unemployment	162
5.3 The Campaign for Trade Union Rights	168
5.4 Union Shops, Strikes, and Levels of Implementation	174
5.5 Conditions: “Human Labour Is Not a Merchandise”	181
Chapter 6: Social Security, Education, and Culture	191
6.1 Food, Clothing, Housing, and Medical Care	192
6.2 Troubles with the Phrase “Social Security”	199
6.3 The Rights to Full Development, Education, and Culture	210
6.4 The Distinction Between “Old” and “New” Human Rights	222
6.5 The Organic Unity of the Document	232
Chapter 7: Duties and Communities	239
7.1 The Duties and Communities of Article 29	241
7.2 Protecting the Family, Motherhood, and Childhood	252
7.3 The Rights of Religious and Educational Communities	258
7.4 The Omission of a Special Minority Rights Article	269
Chapter 8: Article 1, the Preamble, and the Enlightenment	281
8.1 A Bargain About God and Nature	284
8.2 “Inherent,” “Inalienable,” and “Born”	290
8.3 Reason and “the Conscience of Mankind”	296
8.4 The Rights to Petition and Rebellion	302
8.5 Human Rights as Means and Ends	313
8.6 The Declaration and Human Rights Education	320
Appendix: The Universal Declaration of Human Rights with a Guide to Discussions of Specific Topics and Articles	329
Notes	337
Acknowledgments	379