

Bookshelf

2000

[Introduction to] Valley of the Shadow: Two Communities in the American Civil War

Edward L. Ayers

University of Richmond, eayers@richmond.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarship.richmond.edu/bookshelf>

Part of the American Studies Commons, and the United States History Commons

Recommended Citation

Ayers, Edward L., and Anne S. Rubin. Valley of the Shadow: Two Communities in the American Civil War. New York: W.W. Norton & Co., 2000.

NOTE: This PDF preview of [Introduction to] Valley of the Shadow: Two Communities in the American Civil War includes only the preface and/or introduction. To purchase the full text, please click here.

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by UR Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Bookshelf by an authorized administrator of UR Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact scholarshiprepository@richmond.edu.

VALLEY OF THE SHADOW

TWO COMMUNITIES IN THE AMERICAN CIVIL WAR

EDWARD L. AYERS
ANNE S. RUBIN

W·W·Norton & Company  New York London

VALLEY OF THE SHADOW

TWO COMMUNITIES IN THE AMERICAN CIVIL WAR

Dual-Platform (Mac and Windows) CD
with book and available Web site

The Valley of the Shadow employs new technology for a new purpose: to immerse us in time and place in a way not possible before. Through this CD ROM, with its accompanying book and acclaimed site on the World Wide Web, users gain an unmatched ground-level view of the coming of the Civil War.

Two communities in America's Great Valley—Franklin County, Pennsylvania, and Augusta County, Virginia—separated by only a few hundred miles, share much in their politics and ways of life. Yet they emerge on opposing sides of a war in which they zealously send their sons to fight and die. Here we see a Civil War that is not the inevitable conflict of rival societies, but a human drama, immediate, particular, engrossing.

This is history as lived experience, present in the vast archive of letters, diaries, newspaper accounts, military records, maps, images, and music easily accessible here. In their private papers, the people of Staunton, Virginia, react to John Brown's raid at Harper's Ferry and to the mundane events of family and town. See how the Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, newspapers address the secession of Southern states. Discover the conditions in which slaves lived and worked. Trace the intersections of power and wealth, north and south. Who made the decisions to fight? Who fought and died? What was the texture of daily life in these places?

(continued on back flap)

(continued from front flap)

In the Valley of the Shadow you can explore these and countless other questions. It is an endlessly rewarding experience. Enter the past and have a look around. . . .

Credit: Lionel Delevingne

Edward L. Ayers is Hugh P. Kelly Professor of History at the University of Virginia. He is the author or editor of a number of books on the history of the South, including The Promise of the New South: Life after Reconstruction, a main selection of the History Book Club, winner of the Owsley Award of the Southern Historical Association and the Rawley Prize of the Organization of American Historians, and a finalist for both the National Book Award and the Pulitzer Prize.

Anne S. Rubin is project manager of the Valley Project and an associate at the Institute for Advanced Technology in the Humanities at the University of Virginia.

Jacket design by Lauren Graessle
Jacket illustration by Dan Ancona
Union flag image courtesy Department of the Interior,
National Park Service
Confederate flag image courtesy Lawrence Maglio, Company B Military Surplus . . . Plus
Printed in the United States of America
10-97